A bronze horse head sculpture (uma-kabu) is displayed on a stand. The sculpture is made of dark, patinated bronze and features a large, dark, textured mane. The horse's mouth is slightly open, revealing a small, dark, circular object. In front of the sculpture, several small, rectangular bronze fragments are laid out on a white surface. These fragments appear to be pieces of a larger object, possibly a horse's harness or a decorative element, that have been broken apart. The fragments are arranged in a row, showing their varying sizes and shapes. The background is a plain, light-colored surface.
